

Biographical outline of authors and editors

Juan Pablo Arroyo Ortiz (jplaboarroyo@hotmail.com) Professor at the Faculty of Economics, UNAM. Visiting Professor at Instituto de Estudios Latinoamericanos, Univ. of Alcalá, Spain. Specialised at CEPAL and UNAM. Director of the Faculty of Economics, UNAM, 1990-98. President of the Colegio Nacional de Economistas, 1998-2000. Among his publications: “La política económica del Estado neoliberal en México”, 1980-2010, UNAM 2012; “Pensamiento econ. en México a fines de siglo XX”, Trillas, 2005.

George C. Bitros is Emeritus Professore at Athens Univ. Ph.D. in economics in 1972 at New York University, where was teaching until 1976. Senior Research Associate in the Bank of Greece, 1976; Professor of Economics at the Athens University of Economics and Business, 1979-2007. He has published extensively in major scholarly journals. He has served as research associate in the National Bureau of Economic Research (USA). He has held advisory posts in government, government commissions and major business concerns.

Toshiaki Hirai is Emeritus Professor of Economics, Sophia University, Tokyo; Visiting Professor at Hitotsubashi University, Tokyo. Among his publications: Keynes's Theoretical Development, Routledge, 2007; The Return to Keynes (co-editor), Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, 2010; “Exploring Hawtrey’s Social Philosophy ...”, Journal of the History of Economic Thought, 34-2, 2012; “How Did Keynes Transform His Theory from the Tract into the Treatise?”, European Journal of the History of Economic Thought, XIV-2, 2007.

Cosimo Perrotta has been professor of the History of Economic Thought, University of Salento, Italy. Council Chair of the European Society History of Economic Thought (2002-06). Has published articles and essays on History of Political Economy, European J. for the History of Econ. Thought, History of Economic Ideas, etc. Among his publishers: Kluwer, Routledge, Elgar, Il Mulino. Among his books: Consumption as an Investment, Routledge; L'arretratezza del Mezzogiorno, with Claudia Sunna and others, Bruno Mondadori.

Maria Eugenia Romero Sotelo, professor at UNAM. Ph.D. in History at Colegio de Mexico. National university prize in the teaching of economics, 2000. Research scholarship at the N. L. Benson Latin American Collection, and at University of Alcala, Spain. Among her books: Monetary policy during the Porfiriato (2012); Foundations of Economic Policy in Mexico:1910-2010, 2012, ed.; History of Economic Thought in Mexico (1821-2000), ed.; "Orthodoxy versus Mexican developmental thought" (2012).

Sunanda Sen former Professor at Jawaharlal Nehru Univ., Delhi; visiting professor in many foreign Universities. At present, researches on development, international finance, labour and gender studies. In the Indian Council of Social Science; Research Associate at Levy Inst. of economics, New York; Joan Robinson Memorial Lecturer and Life member of Clare Hall at Cambridge Univ. Her publications include Colonies and Empire (1992); Trade and Dependence (2000); Globalisation and Development (2007); Unfreedom and Waged Work (2009).

Claudia Sunna (claudia.sunna@unisalento.it) Ph.D. in history of economic thought; is researcher in economics and at University of Salento. She coordinates the research group of the same University for a Gender Sustainability Index. Research interests: development and population theory in historical perspective, labour and gender studies. Among her publications: "Did Keynes Go to Developing Countries?", 2007; L'arretratezza del Mezzogiorno, with Cosimo Perrotta and others, Bruno Mondadori, 2012; "Raúl Prebisch and the Keynesian theory in Latin America" 2013 Routledge (forthcoming).